COMPLETE PLANS

Since building a duplex involves a major investment it demands careful planning to assure development of property that will be appealing to tenants, economical to construct, inexpensive to maintain.

The designs presented in this book will meet those requirements. They are distinctive duplexes and apartments with individuality.

The pictures show how the properties will appear after construction and the miniature floor plans show the size and arrangement of the rooms. It is impractical to build from a picture and a miniature floor plan alone. You will need complete plans and specifications. To build without definite plans, or with makeshift plans, invites misunderstandings; the possibility of costly mistakes, and faulty, weak construction.

Our tested plans are available to you at the nominal costs shown. All orders filled promptly.

A Set of Garlinghouse Plans Includes —

PLANS—The complete working plans consist of blue prints of four elevations, showing how the house will appear on all four sides. A plot plan locating the house on the plot of ground, with dimensions in blank to be filled in locally. A basement plan, (in cases where house does not have a basement, a foundation plan is provided), showing the materials, height and thickness of the walls and footings, and location of flues, cross walls, I beams, heating plant, etc. Floor plan showing the arrangement and dimensions of rooms, closets, bath, etc. On the floor plan is also shown the location of electric outlets, plumbing fixtures, heat registers, built-in cupboards, medicine cabinets, linen cabinets, range and refrigerator space, etc. The detail sheet shows suggested details for the built-in features, the type of interior finish, style of doors, etc., and a section showing the construction of the building.

SPECIFICATIONS—The specifications explain in detail the construction of the house from the excavation to the interior decorations.

LUMBER AND MILL LISTS—The lumber and mill lists consist of an itemized list of the lumber and mill materials needed to construct the building and stating where the items should be used.

THE PLANS, SPECIFICATIONS, LUMBER AND MILL LISTS as we have them made up for the designs in our books are sufficient and further details are not needed by any competent builder.

TO OBTAIN COST ESTIMATES—An estimate of what it will cost to erect any house illustrated in any of our books, in your locality, may be obtained by consulting your local builder.

ALL PLANS SENT ON MONEY BACK GUARANTEE—All Garlinghouse Plans are sent on a "Money Back If You're Not Satisfied" Guarantee. You have five full days after receiving the plans to study them over and to decide if they will serve your purpose. Plans which are not satisfactory may be returned for prompt exchange or refund.

No. 2751 — The appearance of this duplex is such that it could be constructed in a neighborhood of single-family residences without looking out of place. Numerous conveniences have been incorporated into the left side unit on the expectation that it will be owner-occupied. Although basically the rooms in each unit are similar, the left side has a center hall, a dinette with three-way exposure, and an additional closet. Each has two-bedroom efficiency because of the large bed closets. Exterior construction is painted brick veneer with horizontal siding gables.

No. 2802—Although this very attractive brick duplex could be constructed to face the street in a conventional manner, it is especially well adapted for a garden court development as pictured here. The side elevation, due to the porch and the decorative stained-shingle gable, would present a pleasing appearance if faced toward the street. The bed closet gives this design two-bedroom efficiency. Sliding doors in the bedroom closet makes possible an unusual amount of clothes storage without sacrifice of floor space in this room which is particularly attractive because of its three-way exposure.

No. 2763—In this design which is perfectly square except for the porch, every consideration has been given to planning for minimum initial cost and upkeep together with convenience of design to make the property appealing to tenants. Floor space in the living room has been increased in apparent size by preventing need of cross-traffic in reaching other rooms. Both units have generous closet space, but articles for storage can be placed in the full basement. Casement windows are used throughout. The utility of two bedrooms is accomplished by use of the bed closet in the living room. The slab porch is more than adequate in size for both occupants.

No. 2771—A “For Rent” sign will never be needed by the owner of this economy duplex since its extremely efficient interior layout will always be attractive to tenants. Four-room efficiency is achieved by having the bed closet. Use of sliding doors adds to the amount of available floor space for furniture arrangement. The protected entry and convenient wrap closet are especially attractive.

No. 2831 — Here's a convenient duplex of five-room units that will fit a narrow city lot. Each room has excellent cross-ventilation. The rear stairway to the second floor is made possible without the sacrifice of space needed for any other purpose, and permits a "back door" as a service entry. The seven closets designed for this upper unit should meet all the storage requirements of the average occupant without requiring access to the basement.

No. 2894—The attractive Colonial entrance gives the appearance of a single-family residence to this duplex which contains five-room efficiency living units. The aisle-type kitchen has a work counter which allows far more storage space than usually provided in multiple-dwellings. Because of the arched opening between the living room and the dinette, adequate lighting and ventilation is achieved in this area even though it has no direct exterior opening. The space for a roll-a-way bed and the extra closet in the living room offers a convenient substitute for a second bedroom.

between the owner and the builder.

No. 2924—The simple, clean-cut lines of this design make possible inexpensive construction. But the added conveniences that are included in the plan will give it a competitive edge over many smaller designs insofar as the ability to attract tenants is concerned. The rooms are large; each unit has its own screened porch in the rear and shelter in the front. Whereas ample storage space is provided in the basement, there also is room for bulk storage over the stairwell to the basement. Exceptional ventilation is possible in the bedrooms with their double windows.

No. 3083—Five-room efficiency has been attained in the design through the employment of a bed closet off the living room. Entrance to the basement is provided through an outside cellar-way in order to conserve first-floor space for more ample room area. The bays for the studio windows have been provided without any appreciable added cost since the gable offers protection for the stoop. These bays are constructed out of stained shingles. The U-shaped kitchen arrangement offers ample cupboard and counter space in a compact grouping of the sink-stove-refrigerator triangle.

No. 3197—Opportunities for interesting furniture arrangements and decorative effects are offered to occupants of this charming duplex because of the den off the living room. Use of casement windows throughout makes possible extremely well-lighted and well-ventilated rooms. With the plumbing back-to-back on one wall, economical construction is assured without sacrifice of convenience. Much more area is provided in the bedrooms than is usual in a five-room duplex which has less than 2,000 square feet over-all.

No. 1724—This lovely little duplex is very attractive and practical. The built-in kitchen arrangement is quite unusual and very convenient. Each side of this design has a combination living room, dining room, and kitchen, a large bedroom, bath, two large closets and a small one, and each side has its own basement with heating plant, laundry, storage, lavatory, and recreation rooms. The foundation is concrete, the house is frame with shingles for the exterior and the roof may be wood or composition shingles.

No. 3703—Even the most urbane renter would take pride in helping to maintain the beauty of the surroundings which are planned as a part of the design of this five-room efficiency duplex. The built-in porch boxes and supports invite their use for a variety of flowers and vines which do so much toward adding a touch of “home” even for rented property. All closets are over-sized to meet the needs of an active family. Additional storage space is available in the full basement. Although the living rooms are compact they offer the usable space of considerably larger rooms because of the exceptional amount of clear wall space, and because no cross-traffic is created due to the location of the entrance in the corner.

No. 3278 — Although different exterior materials are used, this duplex is identical to No. 3223 shown on the opposite page. Both are superbly arranged and would be attractive in any location. But by the change in their exteriors the designers have offered to the investor-builder an opportunity for multiple development without sacrifice of the economy of standardization. The differences in the roof lines and in the materials used minimize the fact that they are basically similar. These differences may be heightened further by a variation in the planting and landscaping.

No. 3223 — Name any feature commonly sought in a small house or apartment and you will find that it has been incorporated into this plan. Exterior attractiveness results from the skillful combining of brick, wooden siding, and stucco. The check-list of interior conveniences reads as follows: sheltered entry with vestibule and adjacent wrap closet; bed closet with built-in dressing table; first floor storage space; bath centrally located; dinette with built-in China cabinet; kitchen with stove-sink-refrigerator in handy, space-saving triangle; and ample bedroom with two large closets. The back entrance serves both units handily.

No. 3740 — Heated arguments have been waged among designers as to whether or not fireplaces in modern homes justified their added costs and bother, even admitting that most people feel they contribute immeasurably toward increasing the livability of a room. So here the designers have compromised by offering two units in a duplex which are similar save for the fireplace in one.

MINOR ALTERATIONS CAN BE HANDLED BY ANY COMPETENT BUILDER

Residence plans presented in this book are stock plans covering the construction of homes shown by photos and floor plan diagrams.

While it is impractical for us to change our tracings to show alterations, minor changes in design and material substitutions can be handled by any competent builder who is familiar with various types of construction, without going to the expense of making up special plans or supplements.

Let's assume, for example, that plans on the home you want to build, specify frame construction instead of brick veneer, for exterior walls. A brick veneer wall is made by applying one course of brick to the outside of a frame wall, instead of wood siding. Typical sections of both frame and brick veneer walls, are included in the above drawings. The drawings show the foundation walls are the same thickness, but since the brick is on the outside of the frame the foundation should be set out the thickness of the brick, all around, in order to provide a base for the veneer. Perhaps you would like to add an extra window to the living room, dormer to an upstairs room, or move the partition between the kitchen and dining room to increase the size of the kitchen.

Such changes are simple to handle, and may be added to the stock plans by the builder, using a colored pencil, and will serve as a guide to the carpenters on the job.

Filling in blank spaces in the SPECIFICATION AND CONTRACT FORM which accompanies each set of plans, will serve as a written confirmation of all verbal understandings, notations on plans required to meet local ordinances, minor alterations, etc., between owner and builder, and will form the legal basis upon which their relationship is established.
